Train hits truck stuck on crossing

By Ben Kleppinger
ben@theinteriorjournal.com

MORELAND — A truck was hit by a train Sunday night in the Moreland area of Lincoln County, but no one was injured in the wreck.

At around 7 p.m., a 2004 Chevy pickup truck driven by 58-year-old James Jones of Parksville stalled on the Vonlinger Lane railroad crossing west of Ky. 2141, according to the Lincoln County Sheriff's office.

The truck apparently stalled because its exhaust system "became lodged on the tracks," according to Lincoln County's Emergency Management Agency.

A southbound Norfolk-Southern locomotive collided with the truck at about 7:11 p.m. but there were no injuries because the driver was able to get out of the vehicle prior to the impact, according to Lincoln EMA.

Event details how Kinney Noe was saved after 2011 hunting accident

By Ben Kleppinger

As the Air Evac helicopter raced from the remote Lincoln County field where it had picked up its critical patient and toward the level-one trauma center in Lexington, paramedic Aaron Stamper wanted to believe that the man on the stretcher next to him would survive.

Stamper knew the man who now lay prone, in agonizing pain from a 3-inch tree limb that had impaled him, jutting deep inside his torso.

The man was Kinney Noe, a family friend whose wife had taught Stamper's wife in elementary school.

"I just kept thinking and hoping and praying, I was like, 'please let this ... just go textbook when we get there,'" Stamper said. "When we landed on the pad, I just had so much doubt and so much fear, because I kept thinking ... everything we know says the odds of him surviving this are not in his favor."

But against those odds, Noe did survive. And Sunday, more than two

Stuck throttle blamed for Hustonville wreck

Traffic along Ky. 78 backs up Feb. 20 while responders deal with a one-vehicle wreck. One woman was injured in the wreck, which was apparently caused by a stuck throttle on the vehicle.

HUSTONVILLE — A woman was injured Feb. 20 after she was ejected from an out-of-control vehicle and then pushed into the ground as the vehicle rolled over her.

The woman, identified by Hustonville Police Chief Fred McCoy as Amy Whitis, was airlifted to the University of Kentucky Chandler Medical Center around 11:30 a.m. last Thursday, following the wreck along Ky. 78 east of Hustonville.

Whitis was initially listed in serious condition, but was discharged from the hospital before the weekend, a hospital spokeswoman said.

McCoy said the driver of the vehicle, Justin Edward Sowers, 26, was headed east on Ky. 78 a mile or two outside Hustonville when the wreck occurred.

McCoy said Sowers claimed he was trying out some modifications to his car when the throttle stuck, causing the car to accelerate without his control.

Sowers apparently attempted to shift out of and back into drive in order to un-stick the throttle, but was unsuccessful, McCoy said.

After-school program hopes to open soon

Old school to be used for students from Highland, Waynesburg

By Ben Kleppinger

KINGS MOUNTAIN — It's been nearly eight years since Kings Mountain Elementary School closed, leaving the Lincoln County community with a very large, very empty building.

In the time since the school shut down, various groups have found uses for the space, renamed the South Lincoln Memorial Community Center, from addiction recovery group sessions and Boy Scouts meetings to wedding receptions and high school reunions.

Now organizers are hopeful kids will begin walking through the building's doors on a daily basis once again — for a new after-school program headed up by Wilderness Trace YMCA out of Mercer County.

"We're really excited about this program," said Terina Mitchell, child care director for the Y. "We can't wait to get it up."

The after-school program will offer an educational place for up to 30 kids from Highland and Waynesburg elementary schools to spend their afternoons.

There's still work to be done on the handful of rooms the program will use in order to bring them up to state

STANFORD — A stretch of Lincoln County road known for falling rocks was blocked Saturday morning after a rock slide sent multiple large rocks into the roadway.

Ky. 300 between Stanford and Junction City was closed from about 6 a.m. until 11 a.m. while responders cleared away the debris.

"There were three rocks the size of vehicles," said Don Gilliam, Lincoln's emergency management director.

Sunday's message by Bro. Johnny Baker was taken from Genesis 39 and other scripture and was focused on magnifying the presence of the Lord in the lives of Joseph's and ours.

It is easy to worship when things are good, Bro. Johnny said, but what about times of trouble? God does his greatest work in these times. One of life's greatest tragedies is living without the presence of God, and then realizing at the end of life that you've lived without that presence. Who, including believers are living with struggle in their youth, blunder in middle age, and regret in old age? Bro. Johnny asked.

A real relationship with Jesus makes the difference. We need to seriously get to know Jesus and show it in our lifestyles, Bro. Johnny said. What consumes your focus and fills you with happiness and joy?

To prosper the way God wants you to, you will have to be different from the crowd, maybe different from your family like Joseph, Bro. Johnny said. Joseph's brothers hated him for knowing God like the world hates those that know Christ today. The world is trying to conform us. But Joseph was different, and if you are saved, you will be different.

Bro. Johnny quoted Romans 12: 1-2: I beseech ye therefore brethren, by the mercies of God, that ye present your bodies a living sacrifice, holy, acceptable unto God, which is your reasonable service. And be not conformed to this world: but be ye transformed by the renewing of your mind that ye may prove what is that good, and acceptable, and perfect, will of God." (End of sermon summary)

Stanford Nazarene Church news

By Buford Edwards II

Sunday morning, Stanford Church of the Nazarene celebrated the Lord's Day with song, testimony and the Word brought by Bro. Buford from Luke 18 on the question "Are You Willing to Give up anything for God?"

On Sunday night, we gathered back for "Open Mic Nite," full of more singing and more testifying about the great things the Lord has done and a word from the Lord given to us by Bro. Buford, as we continued the sermon series, "The Letters," digging into 1 Thessalonians 5 on the subject "The Day of the Lord."

Join us Wednesday nights at 7 p.m. for our "Book Club." Currently, we are working through the book of Nehemiah. Also, don't forget the youth have powerful services as well as classes for our children. It's a busy place on Wednesday, come check it out.

Our mission at SNC is two-fold. First, to share the gospel message of Jesus Christ to all the world and second, to be a place of healing and hope to all in need. Come as you are, Jesus will meet you there.

On Wednesday, March 5, we will have a special Ash Wednesday service to kick off the Lenten season observances. Make special plans to join us at 7 p.m.

We need your help. The church is working hard on year two of the "Five Year Plan." We are actively raising funds to purchase a church van and pay off the debt on the fellowship hall. If you would like to donate to the cause, you can drop off a donation at any service or even mail in a donation. Just remember to write "Five Year Plan," somewhere (memo field of check or envelope of cash) in order for it to be properly designated.

If you would like to sponsor one of our two youth that have been selected to compete in the regional TNT competition in Nashville on April 4-5, you can see Bro. Dennis. We need a total of $600 to pay for both youth and their chaperone.

The Jail Ministry meets every Sunday at 2:30 p.m. and the Nursing Home Ministry the first Tuesday of each month at 2 p.m. For more information or to learn how to get involved, contact the church and leave a message.

The ladies meet the first Tuesday of every month at 6 p.m. in the fellowship hall. Their next regular meeting will be Tuesday, March 4.

Friday, March 7 will be the Kentucky District Youth Lock-In and Saturday, March 15 will be Winter Jam 2014. Both events will be held in Lexington. Contact Bro. Dennis Hasty for more details and adult chaperones are welcomed.

The Men's Group meets every other month on the second Monday of the month. The next meeting will be Monday, March 10 at 7 p.m., at Stanford McDonalds. All men are welcome. Come out and join us.

The Men's Group and Youth Group have entered into a joint venture to complete service projects in the community. If you are in need of any work done around your home that you are unable to complete, or know of any folks in need, contact Bro. Robert Bowen or Bro. Dennis Hasty.

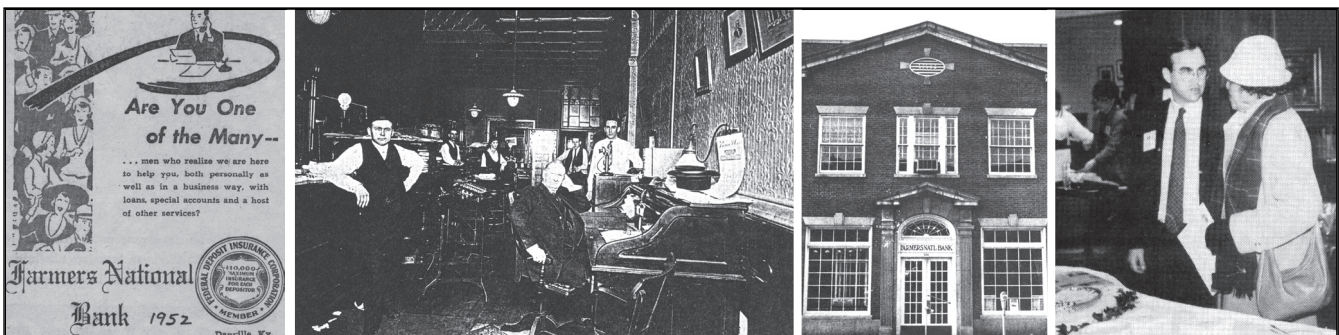

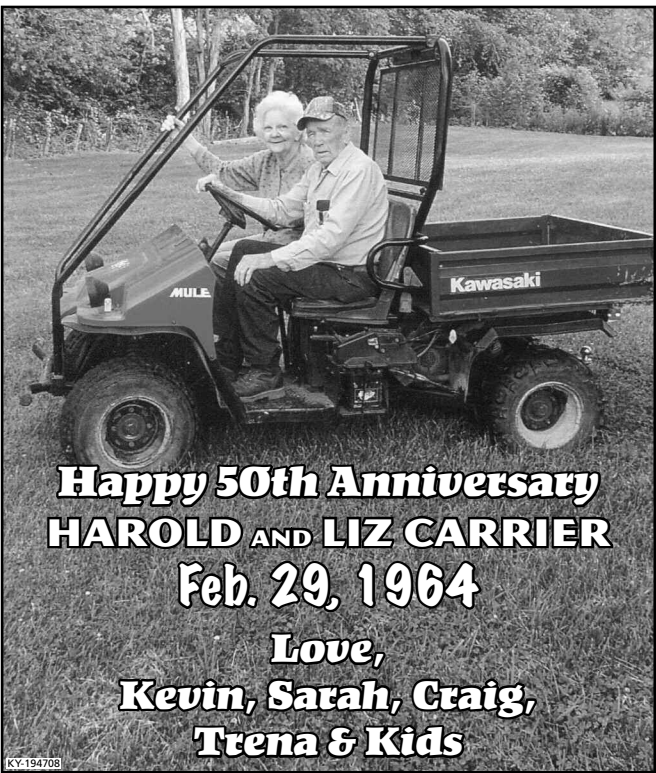

The church has an active food assistance program. If you know of anyone or have a need yourself, leave a message at the church.

Service times: We have an amazing variety of blended services. Each week we have "Schoolin" (Sunday school) beginning at 10: a.m., with worship services on Sunday at 11 a.m. and 6 p.m. Additionally, our "Book Club," youth, and children all meet together on Wednesday nights at 7 p.m. The "Book Club" and children always meet at the church and the youth alternate between the church and fellowship hall each week.

For more information about our youth group and children's programs, email the directors by logging on to our website at www.stanfordchurchofthenazarene.com

If you would like more information about our church and events, contact Pastor Buford Edwards at (606) 365-1260 or visit us on the web. Don't forget to also "like" the Stanford Church of the Nazarene on Facebook to receive updates and an encouraging word.

code, but Mitchell said organizers are aiming to have the program running by the week of March 17.

The program will aim to boost students' academic performance with educational centers focused on things like science and diversity, along with a computer lab. And by providing a safe place for kids until 6 p.m. Monday through Friday, it will help out parents who may struggle to make a living and provide care for their kids, Mitchell said.

"I hope (the students) get the help that they need to be where they need to be in school," she said. "I know how hard it is. I raised two children on my own, so I know what it is to be a single parent."

Mitchell said planning for the after-school program has been in the works since September. The Mercer County Y got involved after parents from Lincoln County let Mitchell know they wanted some services from the Y in their area.

The Somerset YMCA traditionally would have provided services for the central Lincoln County area, but Mitchell said she found out the Somerset Y had essentially shut down and wouldn't be able to do that.

Mitchell sought and obtained permission for the Mercer Y to provide services in the area, and then the project snowballed.

Through the local United Way, Mitchell was put in contact with Eva Stone, who works with the Lincoln County health coalition, which was already hoping to start offering some tutoring out of the community center.

"We just picked it up from there and ran with it," Mitchell said. "We all got thrown in each other's laps, so to speak."

The school district will be providing some tutors for the after-school program, and the Lincoln County Public Library plans to stock the community center's old library with books that can be checked out both by the after-school students and members of the community, Mitchell said.

A donation of a dozen or so computers mean the kids will have access to technology, while a donation of fencing will help organizers bring a playground outside up to code so the kids can play.

The base cost of the after-school program for enrolled kids will be $50 a week, but Mitchell said the Y is offering multiple scholarships for low-income families to help make the program even more affordable.

Once the after-school program is up and running, Mitchell said the Y hopes to eventually offer summer camps out of the community center, though that may not happen this year.

Before the program gets off the ground, organizers still have to complete flooring and painting projects in the rooms that will be used. Volunteers have been coming in to help prepare the space, and will be gathering again this Saturday at 9 a.m. to paint and lay new floor.

If all goes as planned, state inspectors will return the week of March 10 to approve of the improvements and then the old school building will be ready for students once again.

rock face on the east side.

Lincoln County firefighters and officers with the Lincoln County Sheriff's office handled traffic while state highway department workers cleared the road.

Gilliam said officials will be "keeping an eye on" the rock face for a few days in case any further slides occur. But for now, the road is open again.

"There's still a danger of rocks falling," he said. "Of course, there's always a danger of it falling."

Ice on the rock face the week before may have played a factor in causing the slide. A photo of the roadway taken by Lincoln County Property Valuation Administrator David Gambrel on Feb. 11 shows the rock face covered with hundreds of large icicles. Water freezing and unfreezing between cracks can break down rocks over time.

Sowers lost control and the car traveled off the roadway and down an embankment. Sowers and his girlfriend, Whitis, were ejected from the vehicle, and then the vehicle rolled over Whitis, McCoy said.

"She was implanted in the ground" by the vehicle, McCoy said.

Whitis, a registered nurse, diagnosed herself with a broken arm at the scene of the wreck, said McCoy, who noted the extent of any internal injuries was unknown at the scene.

McCoy said Sowers suffered some scrapes and bruises but was able to walk away from the wreck.

McCoy said prior to the wreck, he had begun to follow Sowers in Hustonville because he was "going kind of fast" and his exhaust was making a lot of noise. Sowers obeyed a traffic signal, but then suddenly began accelerating as he was leaving Hustonville, McCoy said.

McCoy pursued and after coming around a turn found the wreck.

McCoy said he doesn't believe Sowers was fleeing from his police cruiser. Sowers' parents confirmed he had been modifying the vehicle and that a vehicle malfunction was possible, McCoy

McCoy said he recovered a gun from the car and will be impounding the car in order to search it.

There are no plans for Sowers to be charged with anything, McCoy said.

"I'd rather let a guilty person go than put an innocent person in jail," McCoy said. "Because if they are guilty, we'll catch them again."

An encouraging word Attitude and actions are important

By Howard Coop

It was one of those mornings that got off to a bad start.

I began the day with high expectations and plans to accomplish those expectations, but everything I did seemed to go wrong. In the kitchen, I was in a rush. When I reached for a glass of orange juice, I knocked it over and spilled the juice on the table. I tried to pick up a simple item and dropped it on the floor. When I wanted something, it was not where I thought it should have been. Everything seemed to be out of place and in disarray. Nothing seemed to be in order, and I could do nothing right. For me, the day was off to a dismal beginning.

Then, a thought suddenly came to my mind. All of my life I have heard the old adage: "A bad start for a good ending." So, I asked myself, "Under the circumstances, what can I do to turn a negative into a positive and, after a bad start, bring a good ending to this day?"

It didn't take long for me to reach a conclusion: I am responsible! To a great extent, what will happen today depends upon me. Each day, my attitude and my actions determine how the day will go for me.

Then, I remembered something that I realized is important. Almost two thousand years ago, a small group of people living in a bustling Grecian seaport city, struggled every day with the ordinary problems of daily life. At times, things didn't go well for those folk, but a trusted friend wrote them a letter in which he gave them some basic principles to guide them in their activities. At a point in that letter, he said very directly, "Everything must be done in a proper and orderly way."

After looking at the day ahead of me from that perspective and making some adjustments in my attitude and actions, the day ended well.

Arriving home from school after a boring and bad day, the 1st grader announced to his mother, "I ain't got no friends." Attempting to correct his grammar, his mother said, "I don't have any friends." The 6 year old responded, "you ain't got no friends, either?" All of us have those "bad days" when few things seem to go right: loneliness, business set-backs, ugly confrontations, disappointments, spousal spats, family crisis, etc. How helpful it is at those times when we hear an encouraging word from a friend of from our church family. So often just being there, giving a hug has a lot more healing power than any professional of theological pronouncements. Jesus is our friend who is always there for and with us. Come worship this Sunday and feel His presence at the Stanford Christian Church, 200 East Main Street (next to the courthouse), at 10:50 a.m.

FEATURES FROM THE BIBLE

TRUTH IN SCRIPTURE

Lot, Abram & Melchizedek
Genesis 14

Lot's neighbors were at war. Four kings against five.

Sodom and Gomorrah were routed. The victor took away the wealth and provisions. And they also took away Lot and his goods. Abram pursues the captors and causes them to release his nephew (Lot) and all of his goods.

Returning to his home, Abram met Melchizedek, King of Salem (late called Jerusalem) priest of God Most High. Melchizedek provides bread and wine for the company of people with Abram.

Melchizedek blessed Abram in God's name and offered blessing, praise and glory to God, "who had given Abram's foes into his hands."

Abram gave Melchizedek a tenth of all he had taken from the enemy. This is the first mention of a priest of God and of the tithe as being a tenth of one's increase.

Notes from Sara Givens

By Sara Givens

It's a beautiful day, just chilly, but thank God, no snow, no ice and today no rain. Let's continue to pray for those people in other states that are not as fortunate as we are due to weather conditions - like Dr. and Mrs. Lorenzo Suter and son who reside in Chicago, Ill. Oh yes!! We are blessed!

There will be a "benefit concert" on Sunday, March 9 at 3 p.m. at the Little Zion Baptist Church, Burgin, featuring the group "Just One." The proceeds will go toward the Agape Ministries Haiti Mission Work. The concert is free, however, a love offering will be much appreciated.

The Black History program that was held at Boneyville Baptist Church was very successful and quite educational and yes - spiritual. Ms. Sandra Hill wants to thank everyone that came and all of those that participated.

Ms. Leisha Wilkinson has been dismissed from the UK Medical Center after having heart surgery. She is doing much better, but continue to pray for her as she goes through the recovery process.

Mrs. Priscilla Alcorn Brown, twin sister of Mrs. Patricia Suter, had a fall and broke her ankle.

Ms. LaSonia Napier Turner of Clayton, N.C., spent the weekend with her mother, Mrs. Janette Napier.

Mrs. Bettie Jones Wheeler of Louisville spent several days with her father, Mr. Eugene Jones.

Ms. Barthenia Brown and Mrs. Sara Givens visited Miss Christine Newby of Springfield. They had lunch at the Mordecai Restaurant and later ventured through the antique shops.

Thought for the week: Cherish and respect your parents because when they are gone you can't get them back.

Kirkpatrick to hold fundraiser in Lexington

Stanford native, Laura Kirkpatrick, two time contestant in the TV show America’s Next Model, will hold a major fund-raising fashion event at Buster's Billiards and Backroom in Lexington.

The third annual fashion event is a fund-raiser for The Beautiful Minds Dyslexic Foundation, a non-profit charity founded in 2010 and the Lexington Hope Center.

Kirkpatrick, who competed in season 13 (second place) and season 17 (fourth place) of the long-running TV modeling competition, founded this non-profit organization to support people with Dyslexia. During her time in ANTM, Laura spoke openly about her struggle with this learning disability from very early age. She is committed to creating awareness and providing support programs for people who, like her, struggle every day and are often treated badly, considered stupid, or treated as troubled students because of their difficulties in learning to read and write correctly and at the same pace of a non-dyslexic child.

"When I was in school I was placed in the special needs children program. The teachers didn't even know what dyslexia was and had absolutely no training on how to deal with kids like me"!!

"I have always had a strong will, I want to prove to people that we all have something valuable to give. I also want to be a role model for anyone out there who has been told they can't do things they want to because of a disability."

"I love modeling, I'm very grateful of all the opportunities I have been giving to pursue modeling. I'm using my gift to raise funds for my foundation and create programs for people with dyslexia. Also, to create awareness and to promote understanding and sensibility."

Kirkpatrick has held this fund-raiser event for the past two years. The first year was held in Danville and the second year was in Cincinnati, Ohio. "I have a lot of friends in Lexington, I'm getting so much support for the show already, it is going to be the best one yet", says Laura with excitement.

During the two-day fashion event set for Friday, Feb. 28 and Saturday, March 1 at Buster’s Billiards & Backroom, 899 Manchester Street, Lexington, regional models and fashion designers will showcase their talent, gain experience in the fashion field and at the same time raise funds for a great cause.

Tickets are $10 for general seating and $20 for front row seating and can be purchased at the door or online at www.laurakirkpatrick.com.

We will also be collecting used coats, canned goods, pet food for local no kill shelters and hygiene products for the Hope Center. Each participating model will be required to bring at least one item. We have already seen great support and will be able to have a full delivery of items!

"We have amazing entertainment this year. The theme of the event is 'Woodland Wonderland', dance and musical performances will be included, I'm super excited about it"

Laura's own clothing label Sioux and Co. will be shown as well her grandmother's Wanda Sue Designs. Other participating

News from Pleasant View Baptist Church

By Scena Ann Petrey

Last weekend, the youth, several chaperones, and parents went to Perfect North for a skiing and tubing trip. Prior to their leaving on Sunday morning, they had worship services. All reported having a wonderful time.

The worship services for Sunday, Feb. 24 concentrated on prayer with the title of the sermon “Warfare Prayer” and the text from Ephesians 6:10-20.

The Bible teaches that spiritual warfare is very real between the forces of God and evil. We must be ready as Christians to enter the battlefield every day with our weapons ready.

One may ask what these weapons are, and the answer is found in Ephesians. The seven weapons are as follows: belt of truth, breastplate of righteousness, shoes of the gospel, shield of faith, helmet of salvation, and sword of God (the Bible), and prayer.

Verse 12 for this chapter answers the question “Who is our enemy?” Isaiah tells us that Satan was an angel who was cast out of heaven because he led a rebellion against God. He tries to get us to rebel against God also. At the end of time, Satan will be thrown into the lake of fire that has been set aside for him and his followers.

Bro. Kyle continued his message by saying that we cannot be ignorant of Satan’s goals and purposes (v. 11). Just as he deceived Adam and Eve in the garden, he tries to deceive us. He even tried to tempt Jesus on the mountain in Matthew 4. But Jesus had an answer for everything Satan threw at Him; His answers came from the scriptures.

To close the services Sunday, Bro. Kyle divided the church into about five sections. Each section then had prayer for the country, the community, the church, and the youth. It was very moving, and there were not too many dry eyes.

Save your Campbell’s soup labels and General Mills box tops for the WMU-Christ Followers. They will use these to support the Oneida Baptist Institute. Contact Annette Story for more information. Congratulations to Chloe Whitaker who made the fall semester’s Dean’s List from Somerset Community College. She is the daughter of Eric and Tracey Wooldridge.

Congratulations to the Lincoln County Freshmen team; they are the Region 12 Champions after defeating Somerset, Garrard Co., and West Jessamine. Noah Young is a member of the team.

On March 11 and March 25 from 6:30 to 7:30 p.m. we will provide training to learn more about one-to-one discipleship. Please let Bro. Kyle or Bro. Matthew know if you plan to attend.

Crossings Kids’ Camp will be held July 20-23 for students finishing second through sixth grade. The cost is $200. A $25 deposit is due by March 16. You can contact Stacy Story for more details.

Go ministry will return in March – the first and third Tuesdays of each month at 7 p.m. Operation Inasmuch is set for Saturday, March 22.

News from Highland Methodist Church

Sunday, Feb. 23, was a beautiful Sunday morning for worshipping the Lord. A good number of worshippers were present.

We were glad to have the Jeff Singleton family present.

Carrie McKenzie was absent due to being on a trip with family and friends in Hawaii.

During announcement time, Rev. Scillely had two lists passed out to the congregation. One was a list of church activities starting on Ash Wednesday, March 5, through Memorial Day services, May 25. The other was a list of scriptures and Sunday dates for which children, men and/or women are to recite. Sermon topics for March 9 through April 20 were also listed.

Several different persons were added to our prayer list. They included the Charlene Berry Blackwell family, Donna Sheron, Bro. John Dean, Betty Cordier LeMonds, Griffin baby, Ronnie McGuffey (heart surgery), unspoken, Ellen Hunkins’ niece and niece’s friend (auto accident), and we learned that Verla Stucker had passed away.

Doris Scillely was at church for the first time since her heart cath and eventually open heart triple by-pass surgery. She thanked the people for their cards, prayers, calls and genuine concern. She still has many months of recovery.

Sunday’s sermon was based on Matthew 26:6-13. This is scripture concerning the woman that anointed the head of Jesus with an expensive ointment that cost a year’s wage. The question that struck and stuck with me was, “Who had given a year’s salary to the Lord?” For some it would wipe out a savings bank account. Would you do it?

Several members brought in hard candy, toothbrushes and soap for the shoebox ministry.

There will be Ash Wednesday services on March 5. Anointing, communion and candle lighting will be specials aspects of the service.

Join us at the Highland United Methodist Church at 10 and 11 a.m. as we uplift our hearts and hands in true worship and love of the Lord, who gave so much so that He could go and prepare a place for those that love and worship Him each and every day as well as on the Sabbath.

Kings Mountain community news

By Violet Bell/Beverly Murphy

We want to wish a belated birthday to Marty Young who was born on Feb. 21st 49 years ago. Another notable happening on that date was the Noble Padgett Store in Kings Mountain burnt to the ground that night. Happy Birthday Marty!!

Magdalene Sims also celebrated her 90th birthday last Thursday at the Golden Living Center in Stanford. Her three sons and several other relatives were on hand to eat cake and wish her a Happy Birthday. Happy Birthday Magdalene!!

A group of former Memorial High School Basketball players have been getting together at the Kentucky Depot Restaurant and replaying some of the past ballgames, etc. Those meeting last week were Darrel Story, Randy Story, Lanny Hubbard, Dwight Singleton, Ronnie Bates and Larry Singleton. Everyone seems to enjoy these meetings.

I will give a brief update on Violet Bell who has her good days and bad days. On her good days she keeps us entertained with stories about her teaching days and we feel blessed to share them with her. On her bad days, we simply look forward to another good day. She would like to thank everyone again for their cards, flowers, candy, visits and many good wishes.

The Memorial High School class of 1963 met this past Thursday evening at the Ward’s restaurant in Eubank. We enjoyed our meal together and most of all our time to visit and talk. We try to get together once a month, weather permitting, and we all enjoy these times so very much.

If you have any news, please call 365-2991.

State-sponsored prayer advocates refuse to give up

Never say die. That must be the motto of politicians, religious leaders and school leaders who keep pushing for state-sponsored prayers in public schools more than 50 years after the Supreme Court struck down the practice as a violation of the Establishment clause of the First Amendment.

The latest prayer restoration scheme comes from an Alabama state representative who proposed a law last week that would require teachers to read a prayer from the Congressional Record every day to students in Alabama classrooms.

Nice try, but still unconstitutional: Whatever the source of the prayers, the high court has made it clear time and again that school officials may not impose devotional practices on a captive audience of impressionable young people in public schools.

A more common end run around the First Amendment is when school officials select students to deliver a prayer. Last year, a South Carolina school district included two Christian prayers in the elementary school graduation program, both delivered by students. To make matters even more constitutionally complex, the ceremony was held in a church.

Meanwhile in Kansas, a school board voted recently to allow students to recite prayers over the loudspeaker before football games — a practice still found in many school districts despite a 1990 Supreme Court decision that explicitly bans school-organized prayers at ballgames (Santa Fe Independent School District v. Doe).

School-sponsored prayers remain school-sponsored prayers — even if offered by students. Under current law, only if students are selected by neutral criteria and given primary control over the content of their speech can their religious (or non-religious) expression be allowed at school-sponsored events.

Notice that school officials in South Carolina and Kansas aren't giving students a "free speech" platform to say whatever they want to say. Instead, students are picked to pray prayers organized and reviewed by school officials.

If you view brief prayers in the morning, at the football game, or during graduation as harmless, then you probably agree with the federal district judge in South Carolina who described the complaint about graduation prayer as making a "mountain out of a molehill."

But look beyond the 60-second prayers and consider the serious threat to religious freedom that can occur when school officials take sides in religion.

Consider, for example, the lawsuit filed in Louisiana

INSIDE THE FIRST AMENDMENT

Charles C. Haynes
Guest columnist

last month alleging pervasive promotion of religion by teachers and administrators in Sabine Parish public schools. According to the complaint, teachers denigrate non-Christian beliefs, lead students in Christian prayers, promote Christian teachings in the classroom and, in other ways, turn the local school into the local church.

What's happening in Sabine Parish is what would likely happen in many school districts in Alabama, Kansas, South Carolina and other places if people of the majority faith in those communities thought they could get away with it.

That's because the push for "school prayer" isn't really about restoring the power to pray; it's about restoring the power of the majority to impose their prayers on the children of the minority in public schools.

If these fights and lawsuits were only about the right of kids to pray in school, advocates of "school prayer" would have declared victory and gone home years ago.

After all, students in public schools are already free to pray — alone or in groups — as long as their prayers don't interfere with the rights of others or disrupt the school.

Contrary to culture-war propaganda, the Supreme Court has never banned prayer from public schools. What the Court has done is uphold religious freedom by banning the government from imposing prayer on schoolchildren and simultaneously guarding the right of students to express their faith, when appropriate, during the school day.

Visit almost any public school in America, and you will find plenty of students praying — around the flagpole, in the lunchroom, at student religious club meetings and elsewhere. And, in many schools, every student is given a daily opportunity to pray (or not to pray) during a moment of silence.

As much as "school prayer" advocates don't want to hear it, there is actually more authentic student prayer in public schools today than in the days of teacher-led prayer.

That's yet another reminder that keeping school officials out of the religion business is good for religion — and good for the country.

Bill would restrain over-zealous law enforcement on the water

We have passed the midpoint of the General Assembly, and the activity has continued to be energetic and fast paced. Of great importance to me this week was the passage of SB 66 from the Senate floor, legislation I filed which deals with law enforcement on Kentucky's waterways.

I filed SB 66 to help Kentucky's marinas, lakes, waterways and tourism industry with the harassment that many boaters and tourists — and even some marina owners — have experienced at the hand of overzealous law enforcement. With an industry as large as boating tourism is in Kentucky, we simply cannot sit idly by and allow this harassment to run our visitors out of state and on to other waters that welcome them with open arms.

SB 66 states that law enforcement officials must have reasonable and articulable suspicion that the law is being broken to stop or enter upon a boat. The bill does not negate the need for law enforcement officials on Lake Cumberland and Kentucky's other waterways. I will work diligently to see that this bill is passed by the House and signed into law.

Chris Girdler
State Senator

My hope is that SB 66 will help promote tourism and economic development on Kentucky's lakes and waterways, and that it will also assist in addressing what many have expressed as a violation of their civil rights and private property rights.

Other bills heard this week included SB 23, which allows moving companies to receive certification from the Transportation Cabinet directly, rather than being subject to protest from other moving companies. It helps consumers by allowing more competition in the moving industry, rather than allowing one or two companies to monopolize that business type. The bill was moved out of committee with favor.

Another piece of legislation that passed Thursday is Senate Bill 119. The bill sets up a medical review panel for lawsuits against healthcare providers. It consists of three doctors and their opinion is admissible to court. It is not a finding of law or an opinion. This measure will help prevent frivolous lawsuits, it will protect victims that are taken advantage of by unscrupulous attorneys and will keep healthcare providers focused on what they need to do rather than worrying about entering into frivolous litigation.

To help small businesses and consumers seeking small loans, we passed Senate Bill 114 which would allow small lenders to raise interest from two to three percent on loans not exceeding $15,000. The current law has not been adjusted since 1982, and this update allows these financial lenders to continue meeting the needs of consumers with higher risk. The measure passed unanimously in Senate Wednesday.

Educational success is critical in our state. Senate Bill 54 passed and will help children be better prepared for Kindergarten. Statistics and data show that early childhood education is critical to future academic success. A recent state screening showed only 49 percent of Kentucky's children were kindergarten ready when they entered school.

However, students who go through preschool programs have much higher readiness. Senate Bill 54 would permit children to attend preschool for 15 instructional hours per week, rather than 9 without changing licensing requirements. This measure would benefit preschool aged children with two extra days of instruction, helping equip them for Kindergarten and giving a foundation for future academic success.

On the other end of the age spectrum, we worked to protect our vulnerable adults this week. Senate Bill 98 would require entities that provide personal care services to vulnerable adults to query the Cabinet for Health and Family Services for a prospective employee, contractor, or volunteer to find out if the prospect has been the subject of a validated substantiated finding of adult abuse, neglect, or exploitation. An individual can also request the registry for a potential employer.

Thank you for your attention and input. I encourage you to come to Frankfort for hearings of interest to you. Citizens are always welcome in our committee meetings. You can also view live-streaming and archived coverage of legislative proceedings at www.ket.org.

Last-minute revisions undermine usefulness of legislative committees

The House officially passed the halfway point of the 60-day session this past week. Here's a scorecard of what's been done by the General Assembly in the past 30 days.

More than 400 bills have been filed for consideration in this year's session, with roughly 60 bills approved by the full House and sent on to the Senate. Only two bills thus far have passed both chambers and been signed by Governor Beshear, Senate Bill 7, dealing with nurse practitioners, and Senate Bill 113, which gave a 30-day extension for establishing new voting precincts under redistricting that passed in a special session last year.

If you have been following this session of the General Assembly, you may have heard the term House Committee Substitute, or HCS from time to time. A

David Meade
State Representative

House Committee Substitute is often used for bills that perhaps need some technical corrections, or a slight language changes. But in some cases a House Committee Substitute to a House bill could change the proposed legislation from what was originally intended to something completely different. And there have been examples with some House Committee Substitutes that are presented to us in committee when we only have a few minutes to review them before we're supposed to vote whether to accept it.

An examination of bills that have passed the House or received two readings in the House found that roughly 47 percent have some type of House Committee Substitute. Again, while some of those substitutes are necessary, the revisions that are filed at the last minute undermine the ability of committee members to give the proper time to review the changes and contact people in our district to gauge their thoughts and opinions.

This is worrisome to me, especially considering we will soon be receiving the budget bill, which could contain hundreds of revisions from the Governor's original proposal. There have been bills filed in past sessions that sought to allow legislators 48 hours to review any bills that dealt with Kentucky's budget or raised taxes. But those bills never received one hearing.

In the spirit of bipartisanship and transparency that many of you expect us in the General Assembly to operate under, a better job must be done to keep those you elected informed in a timely manner when it comes to changes to proposed legislation both great and small. The future direction of our Commonwealth could well depend on it.

I welcome your comments and concerns on any issues impacting our Commonwealth during the 2014 Regular Session. I can be reached through the toll-free message line in Frankfort at 1-800-372-7181, or you can contact me via email at david.meade@lrc.ky.gov. You can keep track of committee meetings and potential legislation through the Kentucky Legislature Home Page at www.lrc.ky.gov, and I also encourage you to follow the House Republican Caucus on Facebook and Twitter.

Cards of thanks

Family extends thanks

I would like to thank John David Friend and all of the staff at Barnett and Demrow and Fox Funeral Homes for their caring and professional service during the loss of my husband. Even after the services, they have continued to be a blessing to me with their kind words and thoughtful actions.

Also, to all those in the community who have sent cards, called and visited me, thank you from the bottom of my heart.

May God bless each of you one hundred fold.

Family expresses appreciation

The family of Marcus Glenn Whiles would like to thank Spurlin Funeral Home for the kindness shown to the family during our loss and for arranging the display of pictures and gifts the principal had received from students.

Thank you for the beautiful service including the music and soloist and for the minister's blessing and comfort given to the family.

The military funeral at the cemetery with the 21-gun salute was very moving as well as the honor guard guarding the casket draped with the American flag that was so eloquently presented to the family at the service.

Thank you to the Centre College Brass Band for playing the Patriotic music as the family watched the casket go to its resting place.

Also, thank you to everyone who brought food and to the Methodist Church for having everything prepared for the meal following the service.

Thank you,
Martha Whiles

QuickBooks workshop set for March 24, 25

With the 2014 tax season well under way, The Center for Rural Development in Somerset is sponsoring a two-day, instructor-led QuickBooks workshop on March 24-25 to help small business owners learn how they can use this popular accounting software package to make tax time easier by organizing their financial information all in one place.

Instructor Carol Whitson, who has more than 20 years of experience working with QuickBooks, will provide a hands-on, working introduction of the financial management system for first-time QuickBook users and small business owners and managers.

The two-day workshop, held from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. each day, will teach QuickBook users how to set up a company, invoice for services, process payments, work with bank accounts, enter and pay bills, customize forms, create graphs and reports, share files with an accountant and much more.

"It's imperative for business owners and employees alike to be prepared to wear more hats, do more with less and maximize their skills and time," said Whitson. "Employers expect more for their payroll dollars and employees face more and more competition for jobs. The technology and software classes I teach will help provide needed skills."

QuickBooks is the No. 1 rated and best-selling small business financial software. It helps small businesses manage their bookkeeping and accounting activities so they will be prepared for tax time. With QuickBooks, businesses can easily apply basic financial accounting standards that will help them comply with tax accounting rules, making tax time easier.

Whitson, a certified Microsoft Office Specialist, also will be teaching a two-day workshop in Excel, March 4-5; PowerPoint Level 1, March 7; Word Level 2, March 12; Word Level 3, March 19; Excel Level 3, March 21; and Introduction to Computers Using Windows 7, March 26.

Waynesburg Family Worship Center news

By Aline Matlock

Worship and praise was done by the Praise Team led by leader Robert Mounce. The Praise Team always does a great job.

Churches services are at 10:30 a.m. on Sunday morning and Sunday evening at 5 p.m. for prayer service and 7 p.m. on Wednesday.

Our prayers are still for the Martin family and many others who need your prayers and mine. Those who have cancer, in the nursing homes and at home. Prayer is a great weapon against satan and his followers. He is thrown aside when we call out Jesus' name. I have cried out many times using the name of Jesus and it works, always. This name brings down satan's power, he is useless against that name, how I thank God for this weapon to fight the devil.

If you are needing prayer for anything, call Vicki Dowell at (606) 879-6037, church 379-5213 or 365-2273 or the pastor at (812) 639-7406.

The food pantry is in need of items. This food is free to anyone in need, member or not. Call the church to take part in our food pantry program at 365-2273.

Bro. Gates brought his message from Romans 8:35-37. It was titled More than Conquerors. It was based on trusting God in keeping us through anything we come up against.

God's Word tells us that nothing or anyone can separate us from His love. Sometimes we feel we are buried in an avalanche of trouble, debts, sickness, depression and many things we feel we are up against.

Paul speaks of being buried under distress, adversity, persecution, famine, perils and sword, but he withstood this and fully trusted God to see him through. Jesus is our strength and His love will see us through.

We are surrounded by many things especially by what is happening in the world today. But our God is still sheltering us and protecting us. God is our shield and watching over us. If we can trust Him for salvation, surely we can trust Him for other things. Many people are being persecuted. Their tribulation is felt in other places and parts of the world many are being martyred for the name of Jesus. Many disciples in God's Word have suffered unjustly because they were followers of the Lord. Who knows when you or I will have to face the same. But as they stood their ground and declared God as their Savior, we too will have to stand likewise. Trust God to keep us in His strength and love and He will provide a refuge for you and me. He is our shelter in the midst of the storms. He will never leave you or forsake you. That is His promise for everyone.

NOE

From A1

To those who have followed Noe’s story, the major plot points will be familiar:

Noe went on a hunting trip with his daughter, Kandis, on his 300-acre Ottenheim farm the morning of Nov. 13, 2011.

After splitting up with Kandis to hunt in different areas, Noe hiked to a tree stand and climbed up into it. Shortly after that, the tree stand gave way and Noe fell to the ground.

Noe landed on a tree limb, which entered his abdomen just above his belt line and jabbed upward through his body, stopping near the top of his lungs. The limb did heavy damage to Noe’s liver, diaphragm and lungs.

Efforts to rescue Noe were complicated by his remote location, but first responders were able to get him out of the woods and to the University of Kentucky Chandler Medical Center, where he underwent emergency surgery, followed by months of treatment.

Sunday’s case study, provided to EMS professionals from around the state for training purposes, was perhaps the most detailed retelling of Noe’s story ever assembled, including a reenactment movie shot by WKYT-TV’s Phil Pendleton; first-hand accounts of the day from EMS responders and Noe; and an analysis of surgical procedures used to save Noe’s life from the hospital’s trauma medical director, Dr. Andrew Bernard.

“It’s hard to sit there and relive that event,” said Stamper, who worked as an EMS paramedic on the Air Evac 56 helicopter that took Noe to UK.

Stamper said he was caught off-guard after responding to the scene of a reported impalement to find Noe, a good family friend.

“(Noe’s) family and my family, we have lots of intertwined moments throughout our lives,” Stamper said. “When the moment came that I asked ... ‘what’s the patient’s name?’ He said, ‘you know Kinney Noe?’ At that moment I looked down at Kinney and all I could say was, ‘Kinney, it’s Aaron; it’s Aaron Stamper.’”

“And I remember the words that Kinney said — he said, ‘Aaron, I’ve messed up real bad.’ That was the first thing he said to me.”

Noe had been stabilized on a stretcher and brought out of the woods by local EMS personnel, including the primary team of Stanford EMS paramedic Dewey Cummins and EMT Linda Southerland, in the back of a four-wheel-drive pickup truck provided by firefighter John Hasty.

Noe was then taken a couple miles by ambulance to a field where the Air Evac 56 helicopter, with Stamper and registered nurse Lydia Russell on board, could land.

Other EMS personnel who helped in various capacities that day were Stanford paramedic Jimbo Neikirk, Stanford EMT Tammy Baker, East End EMT Frank Horton and East End EMT Chris Hale.

Once he began examining Noe, Stamper said he could see the hole in Noe’s abdomen where the limb had entered, and he could feel the limb inside Noe going up at least to his nipple. An X-ray would later show that the limb had gone even further inside Noe.

Stamper said Noe was in intense pain and every slightest movement caused even more pain. That was a problem because helicopters are far from vibration-free, he said.

“The next thought that came to mind was, ‘dear God, we’re going to have to put him in this aircraft,” Stamper said. “I knew every turn of that rotor, every vibration, he was going to have to suffer through that.”

Noe was loaded into the helicopter and Stamper and Russell did what they could for him en route to the hospital. But because of Noe’s low blood pressure, they couldn’t administer any pain medication, for fear it would kill him.

“We never got his pressure up to the point that we could do anything for his pain,” Stamper said. “We talked to him constantly. The pain was the only thing in our opinion that was keeping him conscious.”

Stamper and Russell credited EMS ground crews with being able to get Noe to the helicopter so quickly while also stabilizing him for transport.

“We were able just to focus on the rapid transport and making sure that Mr. Noe got to the definitive care sight,” said Russell, who confessed to breaking protocol during the flight and kneeling on the floor of the helicopter to pray. “Everything did fall into place that day that made that happen.”

After landing at UK but before Noe was whisked away to a surgery room, Noe gave Stamper his wife’s cell phone number.

“He’s the only patient who has ever told me this — he said, ‘please tell my family how much I love them,’” Stamper said.

Stamper and Russell both downplayed their roles in saving Noe’s life, but Dr. Bernard had high praise for the work done by EMS responders prior to Noe’s arrival at the hospital.

“The way this case was handled was perfect. You guys absolutely, positively saved his life and just because there wasn’t a lot to do once you did what you initially did to package him and support him doesn’t mean that what you did wasn’t crucial,” Bernard said. “His initial EMS care, the rapidity with which he was extricated ... as painful as it was, the withholding of his pain medicine, every one of those steps was critical to his survival.

“So if it weren’t for the EMS care, we wouldn’t be talking about the operation, which care after.”

Bernard detailed for the EMS professionals in the audience the specific types of incisions and surgeries used for Noe’s case.

Removing the limb was a complicated problem because while it was inside Noe, it was preventing him from bleeding out, Bernard explained.

Another complicating factor was the fact the limb had entered through Noe’s colon, spreading E. coli through a large area of his body and causing infection, Bernard said.

But despite the complications and possibility of death, after multiple surgeries and months of intensive care, Noe was on the path to recovery.

Bernard said a question often asked about Noe’s case is “what saved Kinney?”

“My answer to that is: you. You saved

Kinney; we saved him,” Bernard said. “This system of care that we’ve been able to create that involved excellent pre-hospital care on the ground and in the air, integrated with a trauma center ... and then combined with rehab at the end worked perfectly in this case.

“It wasn’t a smooth hospital course ... but we didn’t expect it was going to be easy from the beginning. The people that picked him up knew this wasn’t going to be an easy hospital course, but just because it’s not easy doesn’t mean we’re not going to get through it.”

Following Bernard’s analysis, Noe himself took to the stage, walking confidently without hesitation, and began by thanking those involved who helped save his life.

“If it weren’t for you people — EMTs, Dr. Bernard, all the other people that are involved in this — I wouldn’t be given a second chance at life and I have been given a second chance at life. If you looked at me right now, you would think nothing was wrong with me at all or never had been wrong with me,” Noe said.

“Even though I give all kinds of comments to EMS and Dr. Bernard and everyone else that was included, I’m here because of the grace of God,” Noe said to a loud round of applause.

Noe recalled the day of his accident, how he and his daughter had dressed for hunting, driven out to the farm and headed to separate tree stands.

Noe said when he had reached his tree stand and climbed into it, it was still dark out.

“I stood up and turned left and right to see if I could entertain a shot,”

Noe said. “All I remember was the stand gave way. If you’ve been fixing pancakes or a sausage patty or whatever in the morning and you put a spatula underneath the pancake, it sits there real good like that. But when you lean it too far forward, it just slides off. And when the top of the stand came loose, I just slid off. I had no time to react whatsoever.

“I knew it was a long way down, so I closed my eyes.”

Noe said a few seconds after impacting with the ground, he remembers his first thought was “am I OK?”

“I realized I was not OK. Excruciating pain was running through my body. I didn’t know what was wrong. The typical thing you think about is back injury — you’ve broken your back, you’ve broken your neck ... I just knew that it was such a bad pain, I had no idea what was going on, but I knew I was in bad shape.”

Noe said he believes a series of “miracles” helped family members and responders find him and get him to the hospital as quickly as they did.

Noe had called his daughter on his cell phone prior to leaving the house that morning, causing her to be listed in his phone as the most recent call.

After Noe fell from the tree stand, he was unable to use his left arm but his right arm was still functioning. Noe said he normally keeps his cell phone in his left pocket, but for some reason, that day it was in his right pocket.

The combination of those events allowed Noe to access his cell phone and press the call button without looking. Even though cell phone service is almost non-existent on Noe’s farm, the call managed to go through.

“My daughter picked up the phone first ring and answered — when we don’t have cell service either place, hardly ever,” Noe said. “I told her I had fallen out of my stand and I was hurt really bad, didn’t know what was wrong, but I was hurt really bad and I needed help.”

Noe’s daughter didn’t know where Noe was located, but she called Noe’s wife and alerted her to the situation. A friend of the Noes, Bill Johnson, was also able to make a call to Noe’s cell phone.

Johnson was familiar with all the different tree stands on Noe’s property, so when Noe told him he had been in the “30-footer stand,” Johnson knew exactly where he was.

As EMS personnel were rushing to the scene, Noe’s daughter was able to find him and stayed next to him, making sure he remained conscious.

After he was transported to UK, Noe said he spent 69 days in the intensive care unit and a total of 132 days at the hospital, before spending 19 more in rehab at Cardinal Hill.

After that, there were still many more months of difficult recovery and rehab to endure at home. But with help from his wife, Rita, and many others, he made it through.

“I cannot say enough about the love of my spouse,” he said. “Rita’s not only my wife, she’s my soul mate, she’s my best friend.”

Noe said there are still physical effects from the incident that affect him daily — his left hand is “all clawed up” and his toes are all numb.

“But hey, I’m alive, I give God the glory and praise that I’m here,” he said.

Noe said during his months in the hospital, he regained a faith in God that he had lost previously.

“I had lost my faith and I was really questioning things,” he said. “When I woke up at the hospital ... I remember that I asked God, ‘help me to regain my faith.’”

Now, Noe gives his testimony at church services. And he has resumed hunting — though he said he uses a safety harness whenever he’s in a tree stand.

“I’m living life to the fullest, and that’s because of you all,” he said to those gathered who had helped him survive.

Rita Noe wrapped up the event by offering her thanks for the extra time her husband has been given for life following the accident. Kinney Noe was able to be there for the birth of his first grandchild and to walk his youngest daughter down the aisle because of the excellent medical care provided to him, she said.

“When I look back on that morning of November in 2011 and the EMS rescue squads followed us out to the farm and I stood there and watched them as they worked, I was just amazed,” she said. “So many of us, it’s just the general population, we do not stop to think of the importance of your job until it happens to you personally.

“So thank you all. I saw it first-hand that morning.”

The train sustained minor damage in the wreck; the truck was severely damaged and the collision caused it to overturn in a nearby creek.

Lincoln County Fire Station No. 3, West Lincoln EMS and Lincoln County Deputy Chase Marcum responded to the scene, along with a hazardous materials unit from the Stanford Fire Department. Emergency Management Deputy Director Jeremy Blansett also responded to the scene.

Stanford Fire Chief Scott Maples said Stanford’s hazmat team deployed absorbent booms to clean up the spilled fluids. It was a minor spill and no further cleanup is necessary, he said.

Casey girls beat Lincoln for first time in four years

By Mike Marsee
marsee@schurz.com

LIBERTY — It was not the way the Lincoln County girls wanted to head into the postseason, but it was a game their coach hoped they would learn from as they prepared for their biggest game of the year.

Unable to duplicate their first-half play, the Lady Patriots lost to Casey County 60-51 in their regular-season finale.

They led by as many as nine points in the second quarter but saw Casey pass them by in the third as they lost for the first time in four years in one of the most compelling series in the 12th Region.

It was a tough spot for Lincoln, which faced Casey on the Lady Rebels' Senior Night and on a night when Casey's court was named for longtime coach Randy Salyers. And while Lincoln coach Cassandra McWhorter said she was disappointed that the Lady Patriots didn't win it, she hoped it would do them some good in their do-or-die game against Danville on Tuesday in the 45th District Tournament.

"This is why you play a game like this before tournament time, because it's a tournament atmosphere and it is going to prepare you for that first game of the district.

Danville knocks out defending district champion Lincoln 59-49 in semifinals

By Nancy Leedy
DANVILLE — The reign is over.

For the first time since 2008, a new champion will be crowned in the Girls 45th District Tournament, as six-time defending champion Lincoln County was eliminated 59-49 by Danville Tuesday night in the semifinal round.

Lincoln (17-13) led the biggest part of the game, but host Danville pushed ahead when it mattered most, going on a 20-4 scoring tear in the final 5 minutes, 42 seconds to knock out the Lady Patriots 59-49 and earn the Lady Admirals an automatic berth in next week's regionals at LCHS.

"We knew it was going to be a tough battle," Lincoln coach Cassandra McWhorter said. "You've got two of the top teams in the region batting for a berth into the regional tournament. You're playing on Danville's floor. They're hungry and they have seniors that don't want this to be their last game of the season."

"We have no seniors, and somewhere in the back of your mind you think, 'we still have next year.' But we were still hungry," she said. "Our girls fought and they battled, but push-come-to-shove Danville right there towards the end just made plays that we didn't make and we had some mistakes that were costly and they came out on top."

Lincoln had led by as many as 11 points in the first half, but the two teams were embattled in a close game the second half. The Lady Patriots were clinging to a 45-39 lead when the Lady Admirals (20-7) made their rally run.

Senior guard Essence Grey, who had a game-high 30 points, tallied 12 points during the late run to help Danville advance. Grey, who picked up most of her points at the foul line on 18-for-22 shooting, drove inside for two baskets in the run then went 8-for-8 at the line as Danville pulled away.

There were three ties in the closing minutes. Laken Grey put Danville on top to stay, 51-49, with a putback at the 2:06 mark. Alyvia Walker followed with three

Lincoln claims 15th straight win with 73-41 romp over Casey Rebels

By Nancy Leedy

LIBERTY — The Lincoln County boys kept with their winning ways Friday night, closing out the regular season with a 73-41 romp over host Casey County on Senior Night.

The No. 13 Patriots shot 54 percent (13-for-24) from 2-point range, were 9-for-23 from 3-point range and went 20-for-26 at the free-throw line while picking up their 15th straight win.

Lincoln (23-5) never trailed in the game, turning a 22-8 first-quarter lead into a cakewalk.

"I thought our focus and intensity was really good and we played really, really well for three quarters," Lincoln coach Jeff Jackson said. "It's a great win in a great atmosphere. We came out like I wanted in the first half. We shot the ball well and we pushed the ball down the floor and did some good things to get us the lead. We shared the ball. Defended well."

Casey (11-19) shot just 33 percent (15-for-46) from the field, and was just 2-for-13 from 3-point range, but first-year Casey County coach Maze Stallworth didn't want to talk offense after the loss.

"Defense was the big-time key tonight," he said. "I told the guys that Wayne County and Lincoln County, those are the top two teams in our region, you make a mistake on them they'll make you pay. But on the flipside, if you can come down and keep the scoring a little level and you can make stops, you can be in the game, but we couldn't make the stops."

"We were getting open (looks), but we weren't hitting. That's fine when you come back down and make defensive stops, but when you can't come back down and make defensive stops it doesn't matter if you can't make shot or not ... and we just could not stop them."

LCMS Eagles bow out in first round of 8th-Grade state tournament

By Nancy Leedy

The season for the Lincoln County Middle School eighth-grade basketball team came to an abrupt end, with the Eagles falling 51-41 to Hopkinsville Middle in the first round of the Kentucky Basketball Academy State Tournament in Lexington.

The Eagles came into the KBA tourney fresh off a Salt River Conference Tournament championship run, but they could not repeat that run at the state level.

Lincoln (24-5) went 1-2 at state, opening and closing with a loss. The Eagles dropped their first pool-play game 41-40 to Christian Academy of Louisville then regrouped to defeat West Shelby 47-32 before falling to Hopkinsville in the first round of the 80-team tournament.

Chase Phillips and Tristen Helton combined for 27 points in the first pool-play game, but the Eagles fell just short of Christian Academy of Louisville.

Phillips had a team-high 16 points and Helton scored 11 points in the 41-40 loss.

The game was tied 12-12 at the end of the first quarter, but Christian pushed ahead of Lincoln before the half, using a 15-9 scoring edge to post a 27-21 halftime lead.

The Eagles rebounded from their scoring slump in the third quarter and erased the six-point deficit, outpointing Christian 12-6 to make it 33-all going into the fourth quarter.

Christian was back on top by the final buzzer, though, edging Lincoln 8-7 in scoring to claim the one-point win.

Osalfke had a game-high 21 points to lead Christian Academy of Louisville.

Trey Miller contributed nine points, grabbed a game-high 10 rebounds and got seven assists in the Friday-night loss. Nick Noland added four points and four blocked shots. Phillips, Helton and Bryson Yaden each had two steals.

Lincoln took control early in Saturday morning's 47-32 pool-play win over West Shelby.

The Eagles jumped ahead 17-6 in the first quarter and showed a 30-10 advantage at the half.

West Shelby did outpoint Lincoln in the second half, getting its biggest offensive output of the game in the third quarter with 14 points. Lincoln put up 11 points in the period to keep the margin at 41-24 going into the final period where West Shelby closed with an 8-6 scoring edge.

Chase Phillips and Trey Miller topped Lincoln's scoring in the win. Phillips led all scorers with 15 points and Miller had 10 points. Phillips also had three steals and Miller got five assists.

Nick Noland scored eight points, got eight rebounds and had seven blocked shots in the win. Tristen Helton added six points, Bryson Yaden and Dalton Sebastian each had three points and Brayden McCowan finished with two points.

Lincoln's state tourney play reached its end Saturday afternoon as Hopkinsville knocked out the Eagles 51-41 in the first round.

Lincoln led 12-9 after the first quarter, but Hopkinsville outpointed the Eagles 17-10 in the second quarter to go up 26-22 at the half.

The scoring advantage was back in Lincoln's favor in the third quarter, with the Eagles outscoring Hopkinsville 8-4 to even the game at 30-30 going into the fourth quarter.

But Hopkinsville put the game away in the final period, using a 21-11 scoring surge to earn the double-digit victory.

Lincoln was led by Chase Phillips who finished with 13 points. Trey Miller got eight points and seven rebounds, Blake Smith scored seven points, Nick Noland had six points and two blocked shots, Bryson Yaden had four points and four assists, Tra Carey had two points and Tristen Helton had one. Garrett Clem got two steals.

Johnson had a game-high 23 points for Hopkinsville.

The eighth-grade Eagles are coached by Eric Ralston.

CASEY GIRLS

From B1

We hope it prepares them and they learn from their mistakes from tonight and improve until we get to play the next game,” McWhorter said.

Lincoln and Casey are familiar foes, having faced off in the final game of the regular season for seven straight years and in three of the last four 12th Region finals. The Lady Patriots defeated Casey in the title game in each of the last two years, and they have met in elimination games for five straight seasons.

The Lady Patriots had won seven straight meetings over the last three seasons, though most were close games, but the Lady Rebels ended that streak by pushing their way into the lead in the third quarter after trailing for most of the first half.

After Lincoln (17-12) opened a 28-24 lead early in the second half, Casey’s Tiara Cochran buried a 3-point shot from the corner — she was 4-for-5 from long range — to start an 8-0 burst. Brooklyn Snow’s layup gave Casey the lead for good, and Sarah Beard capped the run with a 3-pointer that was her only basket of the game.

“They hit a couple big shots, we lost some people defensively. ... We just didn’t step up and do some of the little things we talk about that we hope we will do next Tuesday,” McWhorter said.

Casey (19-9) expanded its lead to eight points at 43-35 early in the fourth quarter and led by nine points mid-way through the period, then fought off Lincoln down the stretch to win its first game on the newly christened Randy Salyers Court.

The Lady Patriots made things interesting after falling behind by nine by scoring seven straight points. Tiandra Hocker scored four points during that spurt, and Caitlin Hall hit one of two free throws to pull them within 48-46 with 1 minute, 29 seconds remaining, but they got no closer and never got a shot to retake the lead.

Casey made 10 of 12 free throws in the last 2-1/2 minutes — it was 23-for-29 overall — but Lincoln made eight of 10 during the same span to stay close.

“You never want to lose that last game going into district tournament, but Casey County had a lot of emotion tonight ... and I told the girls at halftime, ‘They’re not going to let up. They’re going to do everything with-in themselves to make sure they pull out a win tonight,’” McWhorter said. “And they made a nice run, and we weren’t able to come back. Our girls did a good job, Hocker scored 19 points for Lincoln, but she didn’t dominate its offense in the second half as she did in the first, when she made her first five shots from the field to help the Lady Patriots open a 23-14 lead and had 11 points and four of her six rebounds.

“I felt like the first half we were helping too much inside, so we just told ... whoever was guarding Tiandra inside, ‘Hey, you’re on your own. You’re going to have to contain her and try to keep her from getting the ball,’” Salyers said. “We just said, ‘You’re waiting for help to come, and it’s not going to come, so you’ve just got to buckle down and do it.’”

Casey shot 44 percent (15-for-34) from the field after going 9-for-17 in the second half, and the Lady Rebels outrebounded Lincoln 31-25. Snow had 11 points and eight rebounds and Lakken Miller game from start-to-finish, opening play with a 12-2 scoring run. Jacob Conway, who led Lincoln with 17 points, got the run started with a three-point play and Timmy Taylor, who knocked down 14 points, closed it with a 3-pointer.

Jordan Brown scored Casey’s lone goal in the opening run. The Rebels would get just 2 of 17 shot attempts in the first quarter to fall. Colin Miller, who led Casey with 17 points, tallied the second goal with 2 minutes, 38 seconds left in the period during a 5-0 scoring spurt. Baylen Hill, who got 12 points and a game-high nine rebounds, sank three free throws in the run to get Casey within 12-7.

That was as close as the Rebels would get.

Kody Cornelius and Andrew Wilks both hit inside for Lincoln late in the first period and Taylor and Brandon Pittman nailed 3-pointers for the Patriots to make it 22-8 after one.

Lincoln’s offense turned up the heat even more the second quarter, connecting on 9 of 12 field goal attempts, including hitting five 3s. B.J. Hoover and Neil Conley had two 3s apiece in the period and Taylor drained one trey as the Patriots extended the margin to 47-20 at the half.

The gap grew even larger in the second half, with Casey delivering just two buckets in the third quarter. Hill made the only two shots that fell out of 12 attempts in the period.

“We couldn’t hit the red side of the barn,” Stallworth said. “The thing is we practice all week long and look great. It makes me upset because I know how hard we practice all week long, have five days to prepare and we come out and play like that. I mean, we let our defense dictate us not making our shots fall.”

Lincoln’s shooting dropped off in the third quarter, as well, with the Patriots going just 3-for-14 from the field, but a 5-for-6 effort at the line made it 58-24 going into the fourth quarter.

The Patriots led by as many as 37 points in the final period. “We’re really happy with the win. It’s a great win in a great atmosphere,” Jackson said. “Hopefully that’s something we can build on headed into next week (district).”

Stallworth had hoped for a better finish, better showing to end Casey’s regular-season play.

“It hurts losing like this,” he said. “I don’t like to lose at all, but there’s good losses and bad losses — and this is a bad loss to come out here and show up this way because if people would understand what I see throughout the whole week, and how hard these guys work, it’s disappointing to come out here and play that way.”

Lincoln outrebounded Casey 33-27. Conway and Wilks led the Patriots with six rebounds each.

free throws, NeNe Chenault converted on a three-point play then Essence Grey sank her final two free throws to seal the win.

The Lady Admirals forced five Lincoln turnovers in the final period and denied the Lady Patriots any second looks on shots while getting all but one of their own misses in the fourth.

“They did a great job of stepping up and making plays,” said McWhorter. “We kind of went cold. Our shot selection, at times they got us rushed. Some of the key things that we had talked about before the game, at halftime, throughout the game preparing for this game – we didn’t do. We didn’t limit our turnovers. We didn’t limit their offensive boards. I just think their experience and hunger at the end shell-shocked us a bit, and we didn’t know how to respond.”

Lincoln, which shot 41 percent (15-for-37) from the field for the night, got off to a 5-for-11 start in the first quarter to get a jump on Danville.

Spencer Sims and Jenna King, who both finished with nine points, knocked down 3-point goals early in the first to help Lincoln to an 8-3 lead. But Danville charged back with a 6-0 run, with Laken Grey getting two buckets and Essence Grey, one to put the Lady Ads up 9-8.

Lincoln regained the lead off two Caitlin Hall free throws and closed the first on a 10-2 run. Cristin Hall got four points in the run, King added a layup and Sims got two free throw tosses to give the Lady Patriots an 18-11

Tiandra Hocker, who finished with nine points for the Lady Patriots, hit back-to-back buckets early in the second quarter then, after two Caitlin Hall foul shots, added one of her own to lift Lincoln to its biggest lead of the night, 25-14, with 4:55 left in the first half.

The lead dwindled after that, however, with Danville closing the half on a 15-6 run. C.J. McPherson pushed in seven points in the run, Essence Grey had six and Laken Grey, two, as the Lady Ads cut the deficit to 31-29 at the half.

It would be a nip-tuck battle the rest of the way, right up to Danville’s final run.

McWhorter said she knew Lincoln would have a fight on its hands taking on Danville in the semifinals.

“We knew coming in that it would be a battle all night ... you knew it was going to be this kind of ballgame,” she said. “They were going to make their runs. We were going to make our runs. It was going to come down to doing those keys to the game that we talked about and who wanted it more at the end. I think with our lack of execution on some of those small things that we discussed and with Danville’s heart right there at the end, they prevailed.”

Lincoln’s early exit means that not only will the Lady Patriots not be defending their district title Friday night, they won’t get a chance to defend their regional title either because, for the first time since 2005, Lincoln will not be playing in regionals.

“I didn’t know how long it’s been that we’ve not been out of the district,” McWhorter said. “We’ve been to the region every year and we’ve won two out of four since I’ve been a head coach. It’s definitely unfamiliar territory.”

Kelsi Honaker was Lincoln’s leading scorer Tuesday with 10 points.

Danville, which now plays Boyle County Friday for the district title, shot 32 percent (17-for-53) from the field. The Lady Admirals were 24-for-32 at the free-throw line and had 10 turnovers.

Lincoln was 16-for-23 at the line and had 25 turnovers.

Lincoln edged out Danville 32-30 on the boards.

Factors to consider when buying high-quality forage seed

There are many different qualities of forage seed available on the market, so it is important to buy good-quality forage seed to make your seedlings successful from the beginning. Using cheap seed is not a bargain and will end up costing more due to reseeding resulting from low germination rate.

Sometimes cheap seed also brings in some undesirable weed seeds to the new seedbed. Therefore, it is important to buy high-quality forage seed from the beginning to save time, money and energy.

Here are some guidelines and some things to consider when purchasing good-quality forage seed:

- Germination: Having a high germination rate is one of the most important things for successful stand establishment. If you buy very low germination rate forage seed, you must increase the seeding rate per acre to have a chance for a good stand. You can find the germination rate for each variety on the seed tag.

- Pure seed: Having a high percentage of pure seed for the forage variety and species on the label is as important as germination rate. If pure seed rate is low, then you will end up having some other undesirable crop seeds, weed seeds, inert matter and hard seeds. Pure live seed (PLS) is calculated based on germination and pure seed (or purity).

- Weed seed: The percent of seed which are weed species can be seen on the label. If you have a high percentage of weed seeds, including noxious weeds, it will be very hard to control from the beginning stage.

In general, certified seed package have much lower weed seed rate than the cheaper non-certified seeds.

- Inert matter: Sometimes low-quality forage seeds have high percentage of stocks, stems, broken seeds and sand. A high rate of inert matter is not desirable for good stand establishment and will lead to the need to increase your seeding rate per acre.

- Hard seed: On the label, you will see the rate of hard seed for the variety you are going to purchase. This tells you the percentage of seed which is viable but which will not germinate immediately due to a hard or waxy seed coat. Depending on the species, some hard seed may not germinate for 2, 3 years or more and some not at all.

- Inoculation on legume seeds: Rhizobium bacteria are essential for nitrogen fixation in legumes. These days most legume seeds are pre-inoculated with rhizobium bacteria.

If legume seeds such as alfalfa, red clover, white clover and birdsfoot trefoil are not pre-inoculated, you need to buy the inoculants and apply it to the seed before seeding.

- Certified seed: Most certified forage seeds (labeled with a blue tag) have greater than 95 percent germination rate, have less weed seed, more pure seed, and less hard seed and buying certified forage seed will be helpful for successful establishment. Buying certified seed may cost you a few cents more per pound but it will be worth it as you are guaranteed its quality seed of a proven variety.

For more information on purchasing good quality forage seed, contact me at the Lincoln County U.K. Extension Office, 104 Metker Trail in Stanford at 365-2447.

Kentucky Farm Bureau celebrates "Food Check-Out Day" in Frankfort

Betty Farris, Chair of the Kentucky Farm Bureau Women's Committee (right), made a special trip to the state capitol in Frankfort on February 19 to present Rep. David Meade (left) with a basket of Kentucky-made products in recognition of "Food Check-Out Day." Kentucky Farm Bureau hosts this event each year in mid-February to mark the date when the average American has earned enough income to meet his or her annual cost of food – about 10 percent of a person's disposable income, according to the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Deadlines draw near for NAP assistance

The USDA Farm Service Agency's Noninsured Crop Disaster Assistance Program (NAP) provides financial assistance similar to crop insurance to eligible producers affected by natural disasters. The upcoming deadlines to file an application for natural disaster protection under the NAP are March 1 and March 15.

The crops for March 1 deadline are: Alfalfa, Clover, Grass, Millet, Mixfg., Teff

The crops for March 15 deadline are: Asparagus, Beans, Beets, Broccoli, Cabbage, Cantaloupe, Carrots, Cauliflower, Celery, Corn, Corn-Hybrid Seed, Cucumbers, Eggplant, Garlic, Gourds, Greens, Herbs, Honeydew, Leeks, Lettuce, Okra, Onions, Parsnip, Peas, Peppers, Popcorn, Potatoes, Pumpkins, Radish, Sorghum, Sorghum-Grain, Soybeans, Squash, Strawberries, Sunflowers, Sweet Potatoes, Tobacco-Burley, Tobacco-Dark Air, Tobacco-Fire Cured, Tomatillos, Tomatoes, Turnips, and Watermelons.

Eligible producers must apply for coverage of non-insurable crops using Form

CCC-471, and pay the applicable service fee at the FSA office where their farm records are maintained. The application and service fee must be filed by the application closing dates.

Applications require a service fee equal to $250 per crop per county or $750 per producer per county not to exceed a total of $1875 per producer for all counties. Limited resource producers may request a waiver of the service fee. To qualify for an administrative service fee waiver, the producer must meet established criteria. For more information contact your local FSA office. Many farmers qualify as limited resource and obtain free coverage for their crops.

NAP coverage normally begins 30 days after payment of fees and continues through the expected harvest period. Accepted applications provide catastrophic protection for loss levels that exceed 50 percent of the approved yield for the crop unit. A unit includes all the crop acreage in the county in which the producer has a unique interest. Loss payments are calculated on 55 percent of the average established market price for the covered crop.

Producers with NAP coverage are reminded to file a notice of loss within 15 days of a natural disaster affecting your crop or when the loss becomes apparent.

Contact your local FSA office for additional NAP closing dates. Producers should always check with their local FSA office for specific crops and other application closing dates.

McKnight wins District Spelling Bee, moves on to state

Benton McKnight, an eighth grade student at the Lincoln County Middle School, won the District Spelling Bee held Monday, Feb. 17 at the Lincoln County Board of Education office. There were eight participants representing our schools and competing for the chance to represent Lincoln County Public Schools at the state level. In order to be declared the winner, McKnight had to correctly spell the word missed as well as a new word. He successfully completed that challenge and will advance to the state competition in March in Louisville. We would like to thank Lincoln County Kentucky Farm Bureau Federation and local agents Andrew Kaiser and Sonja Bratcher for sponsoring this event.

Parts of college planning guide now available in audio

Parts of two chapters of “Getting In,” the state’s college planning guide, are now available in audio on the website of the Kentucky Higher Education Assistance Authority (KHEAA). The audio versions include Chapter One and the first part of Chapter Two. Chapter One is a guide to the college admissions process, while the first part of Chapter Two helps students and parents navigate the financial aid application process. Elaine Hall, a counselor at the Kentucky School for the Blind in Louisville, welcomes the addition to kheaa.com. “As many students and parents and adults have learned, the application process for college can be very daunting,” she said. “The online audio publication will enable blind and visually impaired students and adults to have access and information from any home or school setting. It will be an invaluable resource.” KHEAA is the state agency that administers the Kentucky Educational Excellence Scholarship (KEES), need-based grants and other programs to help students pay their higher education expenses. To learn how to plan and prepare for higher education, go to www.gotocollege.ky.gov. For more information about Kentucky scholarships and grants, visit

Leading the way to better Cardiac Care.

“My experience was wonderful.”

Many people like to plan their work and work their plan, like Shirley Smith, for example.

Shirley is a busy lady. Formerly a school secretary and the first woman school bus driver in Lincoln County, she was an active mom of four and still worked fulltime when she returned to school to earn her bachelor's degree. At age 46, she reached one of her goals, graduating from UK Law School – all the while carrying a fulltime job. Shirley was used to planning out her day – and her life – so she could fulfill all her family, work and school responsibilities.

But, some things in life are hard to plan for . . . like a heart attack.

Shirley didn't plan on a having a heart attack. She didn't have time for that. She spent several years teaching business law and political science in college and even taught inmates in the prison system, which she says was her most rewarding job. Afterwards, she continued her busy life, volunteering on the Foster Care Review Board and working at a residential home for mentally challenged adults.

In fact, Shirley had worked 96 hours the week of her heart attack. On Friday morning, she started feeling bad - experiencing chest pain and some nausea. She thought she had indigestion. Over the next couple of days, Shirley noticed she was extremely tired. Finally on Sunday, she had sharp chest pains that “went clear through” her back.

Shirley had a heart attack.

After successful triple by-pass surgery, performed by James H. Shoptaw, Jr., this spirited 74 year-old lady is back to planning again. “I will probably go back to work,” Shirley said. For sure, she will be doing some crocheting, reading and crossword puzzles, giving “Celebrating Home” parties and may even try her hand at writing short stories and songs.

If you ask Shirley about her remarkable - yet challenging - life, she will quickly tell you how blessed she has been. One of those blessings was opening her home to care for a number of foster children. Of course, the highlight of her life is a wonderful family: four children, six grandchildren and three great grandchildren.

If you ask her about her experience at Lake Cumberland Regional Hospital she'll tell you, “My experience was wonderful. My family and I were so impressed with the physicians, nursing staff and cleanliness of the hospital,” she said.

“I would rather it hadn't happened, but I wouldn't have met Dr. Shoptaw, if it hadn't,” she concluded with a smile.
